

Study on vultures begins

Tribune News Service

Dehradun, July 18

As a part of Vulture Study Programme, the research scholars from France have kick-started their study from today. The scholars will be here for three months.

These researchers of France University are undergoing National Diploma in Environment and have created special study sites at Ringora village, to study vultures who have their nests in the region in big numbers. While dwindling number of vultures in the country have been a cause of concern, Uttarakhand has somehow recorded these vultures in good numbers.

Jacob, a scholar said that studying vultures in Corbett would certainly help them in a better way. He disclosed that they would monitoring the nests round the clock.